Peace. art and letters; for his upright administration, and for his skill in making the Romans pass from their anarchical liberties to the tranquillity of a fruitful peace. But we have a right to call to account a founder of empire for what he did not do. When a man ascends so high, it is that he may have a fair view, especially in the direction whence comes the future. Had the first emperor the broad, deep views of the man of first-rate ability After Antonys death everything was possible to Augustus; what did he do with this power Occupied with the single care of saving his fortune by concealing it, he lived from day to day for himself only, without thought for the morrow, here and there replastering the old edifice. instead of taking hold of it with a powerful grasp, and establishing it upon new foundations capable of bearing it for centuries. Doubtless the Empire of the Oiesars was doomed to...
