RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 44 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : U. S. Dept. of Transportation, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 1998 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)237004556 Subject: Blood alcohol -- Law and legislation -- North Carolina. Excerpt: . . . A question arises, then, as to how well the new limit was conveyed to the public. We have no objective way to measure that, but it is possible to address respondents perceptions of how well the law was publicized. Figure 5 shows the distribution of responses to the question, How much publicity have you seen or heard about the new blood alcohol limit (BAC) since it took effect Would you say this new limit has been publicized . . . (This question was asked only of those 512 respondents who thought the law had changed.) Despite a substantial lack of knowledge about the new limit, respondents in general appear to believe that the new law was well-publicized. Two-thirds (68) thought the law was publicized either very well (26) or pretty well (42). Perceived publicity of the lower limit was clearly related to age, with How well has the new BAC limit been publicized (N 512) Figure 5 older respondents believing the publicity had been more extensive. Education was weakly related to perceived publicity. Less educated respondents were somewhat more likely to believe the change in the law had been well-publicized. Drinking status, race, and sex were unrelated to perceptions about publicity of the law. Those respondents who correctly identified the new BAC limit were somewhat more likely to believe the law had been well-publicized. This association undoubtedly would have been stronger if the question had been asked of all respondents,...
